Summary:

1. Restate the question being asked:
   - What are the important lessons taught through the story of the woman who outshone the sun?

2. Answer the question:
   - The important lessons taught through the story are tolerance, forgiveness, and the impact of human actions on the ecosystem.

3. Tell me why you think these things:
   - These lessons are crucial as they teach the villagers about the interconnectedness of all living things and the responsibility we have to protect the environment.

The woman who outshone the sun is a beautiful woman with magical powers who arrives in a mountain village with an iguana at her side. Her hair is so glorious, it outshines the sun. She is a beautiful and mysterious woman connected deeply to the magic of the earth.

The villagers, jealous of her beauty and magical ways, run her out of town. She is forced to leave with the river, taking its water with her, leaving only a serpent of sand. The woman who outshone the sun is a beautiful and moving story. It is based upon a poem by Alejandro Cruz Martinez, a young Zapotec poet who spent years collecting the oral traditions of his people.

Additional Information:

- The story is set in the Zapotec culture of Oaxaca, Mexico.
- It is a bilingual English-Spanish book.
- The book was adapted from a poem written by Alejandro Cruz Martinez, a young Zapotec poet.
- The book was published in 1991 by Children's Book Press in San Francisco, California.

Related Resources:

- Project Cornerstone: The woman who outshone the sun is included in the Project Cornerstone curriculum. Students create puppets and settings and retell the story with props.
- Scott Foresman Reading Series: Students research the Oaxaca region and the Zapotec culture, creating a mural about Lucia Zenteno.
- Arts Learning Project: Students create art projects related to the story, such as paintings and murals, to show their understanding of the cultural background.

Background:

- The story is part of a larger exploration of the Zapotec culture and history.
- It is included in the Scott Foresman reading series for third-grade students.

This project is designed to enrich the lives of underserved children with a love of reading, thereby inspiring them to pursue future educational opportunities.
The woman who outshone the sun, by Alejandra Cruz Martinez, is a bilingual book that tells the story of Lucia Zenteno, a Zapotec woman who is exiled from her mountain village after the villagers learn about her magical powers. The story is retold by Rosalma Zubizarreta, Harriet Rohmer, and David Schecter, with illustrations by Fernando Olivera.

Learning outcomes for teachers include:
- Understanding the concept of respect for others and exploring issues of social justice.
- Practicing reading comprehension and making inferences.
- Learning about the culture of the Zapotec people.
- Using evidence from the story to support answers.

Activities for students include:
- Creating puppets and a setting out of a shoebox to retell the story.
- Researching the Oaxaca region and the Zapotecs.
- Creating a mountain village using crafts and other materials.

This book is suitable for 3rd and 4th-grade students and is part of the Scott Foresman reading series. It is a bilingual text that can be used to explore cultural differences and social justice issues.
